OUR CANDIDATE.

FOR PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE.

Subject to the action of the Republican National Convention.

Republican National Convention, 1876.

The next Republican National Convention for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President of the United States will assemble in the City of CINCINNATI, on WEDNESDAY, the FIFTEENTH DAY OF JUNE, 1876, at 12 o'clock noon, and will be composed of Delegates from each Congressional District of each State, each entitled Territory and the District of Columbia.

In calling for the convention of the several States, the committee of the previous national convention do invite all fifty States, without regard to differences of party action, to the joint work of restoring constitutional liberty, law and peace throughout the country, to the end that the constitutional rights of the States and the equal rights of citizens may be maintained inviolate; and, in the spirit of mutual concession which gave birth to the Union, we do invite the friends of peace and constitutional liberty from the States lately in rebellion to join with their brethren from other States in the faithful performance of the duty which devolves upon us all to secure by wise and firm administration of the National Government the rights won by the National arms in the late war, and to promote the welfare of the whole country.

By order of the National Committee.

M. H. CHANDLER,
Secretary of the National Committee.

Washington, January 15, 1876.

MR. BLAINE AND NEW HAMPSHIRE.

A prominent and active Republican of New Hampshire, in answer recently to an inquiry as to the cause of the grand success of Tuesday, replied that it was due to the strong hold given to the country by the speeches of Mr. Blaine and of the Democrats who replied to him.—Wash. Cor. Boston Journal.

THE FRIENDS OF THE MARSHES.

[From the Boston Journal.]

This appears to be the title worn by Mr. Clymer and his Democratic associates on the War Expenditure Committee, taking the whitewashing of their corrupt record as the main business of the session. With regard to the matter, for instance, of the Marsh claims, they had a private meeting with Gen. Marsh's counsel, and then, when they had the Republican members of the committee together, they had the effrontery to say that he might relinquish his claims if he could get it into good shape. Then when Gen. Marsh had left the committee-room, they hustled him away from Washington, that he, not unnaturally, continued to attend to his own business, instead of taking up action in the matter which was of so much consequence to the other side of the border. Did not the Democratic committeemen think that Marsh might get into difficulty about the truthfulness of his testimony if he were confronted with Belknap, or did they fear that he had rendered himself liable to the laws and liable to punishment? All that is known is that they let him depart easily and quickly as they possibly could.

Then comes Mr. Marsh's better half. She makes statements to a Washington gentleman of high standing which seriously implicate the Hon. George H. Pendleton. These are brought to the notice of Mr. Clymer and his Democratic colleagues, but their zeal for investigation seems to have grown languid. They might have had Mrs. Marsh before them and heard what she had to say about that matter, and possibly also, they might have obtained some light, corroborative of the testimony of her husband, then on his way to Canada. They let her stay in Washington, however, for hours, as if they were entirely indifferent to her presence and there, when at last gone, Mr. Clymer requested an investigator to go to the War Department and look into the matter, which the gentleman never did from that day to this! Now these exceptionally curious developments. They seem to be consistent with the supposition that these managing Democrats wanted to drop Belknap where he could not be harmed, and to prevent Pendleton's case from being inquired into at all. From a partisan point of view it can be readily understood why they should be loth to rein irresistibly a promising Democratic aspirant for the Presidency, but the management in this business is not so easily explainable. But the dogged insensibility of the two Marshes—whether the man or his wife, and this, certainly, is quite enough—stick out all over, to use a phrase more expressive than nice.

The fact is that there would have been no trouble about Marsh, or any other witness, if it had not been for the interference of the President. On the fourth of March there was published over the signature of the President a letter to Mr. Belknap, which appeared in the papers, as requisite, next day.—Boston Journal.

"The fact" is no such thing, and the editor of the Journal can give no valid excuse for not knowing it. The undisputed evidence that Marsh was well on his way to Montreal on the day when the dispatch referred to appeared, so that he could only have read it Saturday evening after his arrival here, had reached the Journal office in our columns, and those of other exchanges many days before the last issue of that paper. Every intelligent newspaper reader knows that the charge that the administration were in any way responsible for Marsh's escape is entirely false. Moreover, those who consult more reliable sources of information than the Journal are aware that Clymer & Co. have been obliged to appeal to the President to bring back the witness they hurried off, and that before their application measures had been taken by the Executive to secure his attendance in order to obtain that criminal indictment against Belknap which has hung fire because Clymer and his associates refuse to testify. But perhaps the Journal's readers like the editor's imagination better than the news and the truth.

In Windsor, the Democratic stronghold of Kennebec county, the Republicans gloriously triumphed at the election on Monday. The town has been under Democratic rule for years, but it was resurrected on Monday by the election of Republican Moderator, Clerk and two Selectmen.

The Commercial rooster, when last heard from, was looking for an early attitude toward the granite hills of New Hampshire. Will the erudite and profound editor of that journal please inform us what the bird has concluded to do about it?—Dexter Gazette.

AN OPEN SECRET.

[From the Machias Republican.]

The Bangor Commercial, (edited by Blaine's cellar Emery, one of the enemies of our country, who, not daring to openly join the rebels during the late war, stayed at home and struck from behind) is bitterly opposed to Mr. Blaine, and devotes one half of his editorial space to slandering him, which fact is sufficient to make all well meaning men support him. The secret of his venom is the severe drubbing Mr. Blaine gave him on hemp, and he means to tell what he knows about the Peak deflcation—but having made statements in his paper implicating various State officials, of which on being put on oath, he knew nothing, but twisted and squirmed and could say nothing. A man parallel to that of Dr. Jordan, who furnished similar statements for the Democratic sheets of the State.

THE PENDLETON CASE.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Post, after stating how the $30,000 draft was traced from Pendleton to the Park Bank, New York, goes on to say:

A prominent Republican lawyer who has taken much interest in this matter and has had it thoroughly probed assures your correspondent that the case is a very clear one, and that it will be an easy matter for Mr. Clymer's committee to get at the facts if they are so disposed. If the committee do not push the inquiry to the discomfiture of Pendleton, he says that other heads will take hold of it and bring all the facts before the public.

The same gentleman says he knows the names of the persons through whose hands the money passed, and the time and place where the moneywalks stayed at home to Mrs. Bowers, who took it and placed it in the hands of Mr. Caleb Marsh for safe-keeping and investment. Of all this, your correspondent's informant says, Mr. Pendleton must have known, and his testimony before the committee was very hypothetical and wholly given to withhold and not bring out all the facts. He swore that he had not paid to the Secretary of War, or any member of his family, or any other person for him, directly or indirectly, any consideration for his action, but he did not testify that he had not paid to Mrs. Bowers (the go-between to Belknap) directly or indirectly money for himself or for any one else. The reason was not, as will be shown, paid directly to Mrs. Bowers, but to other persons, who paid it to her

The Brunswick Telegraph, for a "neutral" paper, develops a remarkable capacity for—errors. In its last issue the Republican majority of 3,426 in Bangor is reported as 58, and the following squibs are equally wide of the mark:

"Brydon's testimony fully vindicates Clymer from the charges brought against him and proves that he (B.) gave only wild rumors.

Some one should send our neighbor a late paper showing the rather substantial increase of Boynton's information and the present highly "vindicated" condition of Clymer.

The full text of the debate with Lamar has come to hand and Mr. Blaine has most effectually used up on the question of law, and being able to make reply, even his own political friends enjoying the fun.

If the Tribune could find that statement without looking into the files it made a blunder, for the editor had really seen the full text of the debate as he does not understand how its words will consist with a paragraph which is evidence of the Record before him, showing that Lamar added a foot-note to the report of his remarks, confessing himself wrong, and Mr. Blaine right on the question of law" involved in the debate. The Telegraph's non-partisanship has a very cocked hat on.

The Springfield Republican is a paper which seldom has a good word for the Republican party in any of its re-enactments. It has never had an opportunity to criticise Mr. Blaine in any favorable manner of him in its columns as the forced utterance of an opponent. The following reference will recent books is, therefore, a significant concession to force of character and public sentiment:

In the case of ordinary candidates for the Presidency, it would be bad thing to have a second string to the bow—what the French call a pis aller. But Mr. Blaine is not an ordinary candidate for the Presidency, and it will be a colossal folly in him to sit down half-ill to the Saratoga-ship, should the political fates at Cincinnati prove unkind. He is still, comparatively, a young man. He is the great Commoner of the day—the Chatham or Peel of the House of Representatives, where he triumphs and battles have been won, he is the most conspicuous figure, towering head and shoulders above his rather dwarfish surroundings. So long as he remains there he is the Republican leader, whether in opposition or majority, by the divine right of brains. So long as he remains there he has the ear not only of the country, but of the whole Republican phalanx, and can marshal to the other wing of the Capitol, in the case of such a man as this, is not premature—it is commendation, it is premature political bereavement. For souls reason, senators are not in request in this country as Presidential candidates.

It appears that there were about 250 members present at the meeting of Dr. Storrs' church, which passed the resolutions protesting against the conclusions of the late Advisory Council on certain ecclesiastical questions, and that of those who voted 50 favored and 200 opposed them, while more than 100 declined to vote notwithstanding it was urged that the vote ought to be a full one in order that their pastor might be supported.

The Concord Monitor remarks that "it is unfortunate for Bristow that many of the independent journals, and all of the sentimental gushing, mushy-pulpit Republican journals, favor Bristow for President. This is unfortunate, and will react against him. If those journals really wished to kill Bristow they could not resort to a surer method of accomplishing their purpose."

When the abstract of Pendleton's testimony was telegraphed the Commercial changed the figures given in the despatch and published a statement that he received twenty per cent. instead of fifty per cent. as he testified and as it appeared in all the other papers. We have thus far observed no correction of the figures in that paper, or any comments upon Mr. Pendleton's exposure. Its evidence shows that he appropriated in some way about sixty per cent. of the claim, being unable to remember whether he got $30,000 or $90,000!

"THE BANGOR WHIG rejoices greatly at the Republican redemption of that city on Monday, and makes special mention of those citizens of Irish descent who resented the claim of the Democratic managers to a mortgage on their nationality, and joined the Republicans in supporting worthy candidates and a just cause."—New York Times.

The New York Herald reporter interviewed Lieut.-Governor Dorsheimer, at Albany, concerning the story published about a letter from Secretary Boutwell to Henry Clews and Dorsheimer said: "There is not a word of truth in it."

It is stated that enough stock of the Maine Central has changed hands since the last annual meeting to bring the control of the road into the hands of Maine parties again.

The Democrats in Virginia are making loud complaints of the extravagance of their Legislature. "What shall we say to the Radicals," despairingly cries the Lynchburg Virginian, "after such riots of corruption, such abuses of secret voting!"

DENTAL CARD.

DR. J. P. BABCOCK desires to say to that class of sufferers who dread the pain of having teeth filled, that in most every instance the teeth can be perfectly restored, and last with proper care, as well as those of Nature herself. In no other instance has he ever failed to save every nerve and perfectly restored to health. In another column will be found a few of the many testimonials from those who have had their teeth saved, and who, in some instances, have had them in use for the past four years after having been by actual count six hundred and thirty of them. However, should the teeth should ever become exposed until the ache, but upon the first appearance of decay they should be filled, and not allowed to be permanently filled, with some substance that absolutely rots and destroys the enamel of the teeth, and before long, by the heat of the mouth, the filling falls out, leaving more than three thousand gold fillings, and it is with much pride that he can say that he has restored to the use of their knowledge, but those fillings only out of that large number which he has inserted.

Charges against Secretary Bristow as made in a Letter from Louisville.

New York, March 18 A Louisville letter to the Herald states that before the close of the war one T F Taylor delivered 5 mules out of 1000 said to have been contracted for with Henry Howland, quartermaster at Nashville in 1864 He was paid for the 34 Nine years after John A Thompson and others for whom Taylor was the alleged agent sued the Government for the loss of 870 mules which they alleged were purchased under contract with Howland and which they were obliged to sell at a loss of $125 per head Benj. H. Bristow the present Secretary of the Treasury was Attorney for the claimant and the Government was represented by the Assistant Attorney General Goforth. By a bare majority the court gave the whole amount claimed, ordering the payment of $108,750 for 870 mules never delivered to the United States Justice Nott delivered the opinion concurred in by Judges Peck and Milligan and on the most vital point of the case the Court said: "The question was not free from doubt and they evidently stated their decision with hesitation and timidity. Judge Loring was absent. Chief Justice Drake delivered an exhaustive dissenting opinion exposing it as not entitled to a status in Court and declared that the judgment for the plaintiff would reverse the uniform and unbroken decision of the Court of Claims and Supreme Court of the United States." An appeal to the Supreme Court was certainly expected but no appeal has as yet been taken. The sum of $108,760 was paid in 30 days after the judgment, a few weeks before Bristow became Secretary of the Treasury. The letter says there is no similar case on record where the Government failed to appeal to the Supreme Court. The letter says the statement is made that Bristow received one half the judgment $54,375 for his fee and $10 000 additional for preventing an appeal to the Supreme Court and securing prompt payment at the Treasury. The letter further says it is generally stated in Kentucky that the whole case was a manufactured one; that Thompson never had the 870 mules corraled and never sold them

Secretary Bristow Explicitly Denies the Charges

WASHINGTON, March 18. The charges printed in New York this morning that Secretary Bristow some years ago participated in collecting a fraudulent mule claim and took half the proceeds, is pronounced by the Secretary wholly false He argued the case referred to before the Court of Claims in the regular practice of his profession, at a time when he held no public office and the court adjudged it a just claim Judge Drake dissented on legal grounds alone and not because fraud was anywhere charged, and the claim was paid by the Treasury upon an order of the court. The Secretary did not take half of the claim, but was where near one half of the claim, but was paid a very usual fee in such cases He had nothing whatever to do with the claim in any of its stages before the Department or in its preparation, but after the proofs were taken he arranged the case and argued it before the court It is reported in Clark in volume 7 Opinions of the Court of Claims."

The Camp Supply Tradership

New York, March 18 A Washington special to the Herald has the following — Pending Congressman says it seems to be proved that Reynolds, of the firm of Lee & Reynolds, post traders at Camp Supply indicted many in October 1875, to the amount of $7,000 to a late inmate of the White House The firm have made $10 - 000 out of the trading post establishment there and have divided profits with the War Department Mr Peck, or Durfee & Peck, corroborates the statement and says the facts will all come out a few days before the Clymer committee Two men will be recalled if the truth is told The Congressman has given the facts, documents, etc to two committees and the witness will have been summoned

Marsh will come if Fully Pardoned

The Telegram's Washington special says the Attorney General states that he received a dispatch last evening from his officer in Montreal saying that Marsh was not satisfied with the written guarantee of immunity offered him and insists upon an executive pardon This officer is now in communication verbally the full details of Marsh's demand and to return with the person which I presume says will be granted on condition that he tells The pardon is to be so framed that it is to be null and void if Marsh does not testify The Attorney General expects this officer to-morrow morning and even if he leaves on Monday Marsh could scarcely be here before Friday next

He also wants Immunity for his Wife

WASHINGTON, March 18 The Attorney General this afternoon received a telegram from the person negotiating with Marsh which says the witness also demands immunity for his wife As no addition of his return can now will also be granted He agent is now in New York

Marsh's Return asked by the Judiciary Committee

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of John A. York, late of Bangor, in said county, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him a license to sell, at public or private sale, and convey a certain parcel of land situate in Etna, in the county of Penobscot, and being part of lots No. 13 and 100, according to original survey of said town of Etna, containing about fifty acres of land more or less, and being the same premises described in a mortgage from Samuel M Mann to said York, dated May 19, 1870, which lots he is informed by said administrator has not been foreclosed by said administrator as such, of the real estate of the deceased, including the reservation of the widow's dower therein; to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a deed of mortgage recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said county, Vol 427, page 276.
